

EMILY EHRMANN

Senior Program Officer

As a born and raised Chicagoan, Emily Ehrmann grew up on the South Side of Chicago, but currently lives on Chicago's West Side.

She received her bachelor's degree in Africana Studies, and later received a master's degree in Public Health. Between undergrad and her master's program, she worked with youth and early teens on academic transitions at a South Side youth center.

Ehrmann is tremendously motivated by her personal, professional and academic experiences to work toward a safer and more equitable Chicago. As a part of MPI, she is motivated every day by the Communities Partnering 4 Peace organizations and her colleagues to continue working toward a Chicago where communities can heal, grow and thrive.

When Ehrmann is not working, she is watching reality shows, cooking shows or reality cooking shows.
